The Cardwell Bill.

The more closely we examine the Cardwell bill, whose purpose is to break the Baylor survey, the more thoroughly convinced are we that it should not be passed, at least at this session of the General

Let's look at some of its provisions.

Section 2 provides for the selection of two members of the House of Delegates and one member of the Senate, who are hereby appointed, created and constituted a special committee authorized, empowered and directed to lease to citizens of Virginia such bottom or ground within the Baylor survey as, in the judgment of the committee, is not natural oyster bed, rock or shoal, as defined in section 1 of

Section 1 provides that "a natural oyster bed, rock or shoal in the State of Virginia shall be, and is hereby, determined and defined to be a bed, rock or shoal where there are growing naturally, and not from planting or other artificial means of propagation, oysters in such quantities as to furnish profitable employment to the citizens of this State licensed and authorized by law to take or catch oysters in the waters of the Com-

It is thus seen that under this bill the General Assembly of Virginia is called upon to put it absolutely in the power of three members of that body to determine what are the natural oyster beds, rocks or shoals of the waters of Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, now included in the Baylor survey, and to lease all such bottom or ground to any Virginians who may apply. They are not required in the bill to determine by survey or by any other scientific method what constitutes natural oyster bed, rock or shoul within the Baylor survey. This is to be de termined by the "Judgment" of the com-

Moreover, they are authorized to lease such bottom or ground in this survey as far off. they may elect to such Virginians as may apply at the rate of $1 per acre for each and every year of rental, and so long as such applicant shall continue to pay such rent for the whole of such planting ground assigned to him, ha shall have the the increase in the shipments of cotton. exclusive right to occupy such ground for a period of twenty years, subject only to of the cotton erop, yet it is a fact that the right of the General Assembly to revoke such asignment for violation of such applicant, or his assigns, of any oyster law or laws now in force or which may be hereafter enacted. It matters not how good or how bad the ground may be, it is to be rented at the uniform price of ti an acre per annum.

After such leases should be made they would become a contract of the State, and it would be beyond the power of the Legislature to revoke or modify the contract so long as the lessee complied with the oyster laws. If ...e State should lease these bottoms for twenty years, and thereafter annul the lease by any statutory enactment, such statute itself would be vold because it would be in conflict with the Constitution of the United States, which forbids a State to enact a law impairing the obligation of a contract.

important measure through. Already questions are being asked and rumors are said that however sincere and patriot.o may be those members who are pushing the bill to ask that this great interest be passed upon by a legislative committee with such lightning speed, is so unusual and unbusinesslike, as will surely make it the occasion of serious animadversion and criticism.

Russia and the United States.

When Napoleon sold Louisiana to the United States he said: "I give a rival to England." At the same time he prophesied: "The world will be all free or all Cossack."
